

Oliver is a senior quality executive with 20 years+ of leadership and operations experience in pharmaceuticals, health authorities and academia, within the dynamic and highly competitive healthcare / pharmaceutical industry.

After a few years with the Swiss Federal Office of Public Health as a GMP inspector for vaccines and labile blood products, Oliver joined Academia as associate professor in pharmaceutical technology in Norway. Later, he decided to join the pharmaceutical industry, working almost 20 years for Novartis, in quality, technical research and development and technical operations. Then he joined Lonza as Head of Quality.